Dear Colleague,

INVITATION TO A SOCIAL DREAMING GLOBAL DREAM RESEARCH DAY, 16TH DECEMBER 2014

The Research Committee of the Gordon Lawrence Foundation for the promotion of Social Dreaming is organising an exciting event for the 16th December: A Social Dreaming global dream research day. On the 16th December we will be organising two parallel Social Dreaming Matrices in academic conferences in England (hosted by Julian Manley) and Denmark (hosted by Jonathan Gosling). At the same time, we will be collecting global dreams via audio files sent to a website. Our aims are:

1. To make available to members of the Matrix the ability to contribute and ‘hear’ dreams from a specific time across multiple spaces.
2. To compare and contrast the dreams on the three sites, England, Denmark and ‘global’, to see to what extent these dreams compare or contrast according to location.
3. To evaluate the use of audio files as a means of collecting dreams and with a view to developing new ways of conducting social dreaming on line.

We aim to write up the results in an academic journal after the event.

You are warmly invited to contribute your dreams to the project website on the 16th December. If you are interested, please email David Patman (David Patman [dpatman69@gmail.com]) and include your email address, country and city (we need to understand the time zones to organise the web site). David will also be sending all who take part full instructions about using your mobile phone to record your sound files and send them to the website: it’s not difficult!

Best wishes,

Dame Ruth Silver DBE, Chair of the Gordon Lawrence Foundation
